“Per Hon’ble Mr. Justice Umesh Chandra Srivastava, Member (J)”

1. The instant Original Application has been filed on behalf of the applicant under Section 14 of the Armed Forces Tribunal Act, 2007, whereby he has claimed the following reliefs :-

“(ii) to direct the respondents to declare the applicants injury as battle casualty.

“(iv) Any other relief which Hon’ble Court may think just and proper may be granted in favour of the applicant.

“(v) Cost of the case may be allowed.

2. The factual matrix of the case is that the applicant was enrolled in the Army on 19.12.1999 and discharged from service on 01.08.2018 in Low Medical Category A3 (Permanent) due to injury “CONTUSION (RT) KNEE AND LIPOMA AAW (OPTD)” under Rule 13 (3) III (iii) (a) (i). He was brought before Release Medical Board at Military Hospital, Bareilly prior to his discharge from service and his disability was assessed at 30% for life and was regarded as attributable to military service. Applicant was granted disability element of disability pension @ 30% for file which was rounded off to 50% for life from 01.08.2019 vide PPO No 164201800849. The applicant has also been granted service pension for life for the services rendered in the army. Applicant submitted an Appeal to the competent authority for consideration for grant of Battle Casualty benefits and war injury pension but the same was rejected vide letter dated 04.12.2018 explaining factual position of the case regarding non entitlement of Battle Casualty benefits and war injury pension as per rules in vogue. Aggrieved, the applicant has filed the instant Original Application for grant of Battle Casualty status and liberalised pension.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that while posted to 12 JAT Regt located at J&K in the year 2014, applicant was participating in Operation RAKSHAK. Corps Battle School, Sarol in J&K was deputed to train the soldiers for deployment on line of control in the operational area, which was part of Battle Activity. The applicant was also detailed to attend this training. On 16.07.2014, while attending Battle and Physical Efficiency Test (BPET), the applicant fell down and sustained serious injury in his right knee. He was admitted in Military Hospital. He was operated at Base Hospital Delhi Cantt twice. At the time of discharge, Review Medical Board of the applicant was held and the applicant was placed in low medical category and declared unfit for military service with 30% disability declared as attributable to military service and applicant was granted 30% disability element for life. Applicant submitted representation to the competent authority for consideration for grant of 'Battle Casualty' status and for grant of liberalised pension but the same was wrongly rejected stating that injury of the soldier cannot be classified as 'Battle Casualty' as per the rules in vogue. He further submitted that as per Army Order 1/2003, which deals with the cases of Battle Casualty, in the Miscellaneous Cases the applicants case is fully covered. The aforementioned Army Order reads as follows:

“Any casualty occurring during deployment/mutilation of troops for taking part in war or war like operation, will be treated as Battle Casualty.”

4. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that at the time of injury, applicant was detailed in Corps Battle School in J&K to train the soldiers for deployment on line of control which was part of Battle activity. Under the circumstances, the injury sustained to the applicant ought to have been declared as Battle Casualty. He prayed that case of the applicant be considered for grant of Battle Casualty status and liberalised pension.

5. Per contra, learned Counsel for the respondents submitted that on 16.07.2014 during BPET at Corps Battle School Sarol (J&K) applicant fell down and sustained injury in his leg. His injury was considered as attributable to military service by Commander 23 Infantry Brigade. The applicant was brought before Release Medical Board (RMB) wherein his disability was assessed @ 30% for life as attributable to military service. He was granted service pension for the services rendered in the army. In addition, applicant was granted disability element @ 30% which was rounded of to 50% for life. Learned counsel for the respondents submitted that Rule 99 (a) of Pension Regulations (Part-1), 2008 specifies that where service personnel is invalided from service on account of disability sustained under circumstances mentioned in category 'E' of Regulation 82 of these Regulations, he shall be entitled to war injury pension as enumerated in that Section. His injury was not declared as Battle Causality since the injury does not meet the parameter mentioned in Category 'E' of Rule 82 of Pension Regulations for the Army 2008. Hence he was not considered eligible for war injury pension. Applicant was granted 30% disability element of disability pension rounded off to 50% due to injury sustained on bona fide military duty. He further submitted that in case of death of an Armed Forces Personnel under the circumstances mentioned in category "D" (Death due to acts of violence/ attack by terrorists, anti social elements e.t.c.) and "E" (Death arising due to enemy action in international war, action during deployment with a peace keeping mission abroad, border skirmishes, during laying or clearance of mines, war like situation, an act of violence/ attack by extremists, anti social elements while on operational duty and death arising as a result of poisoning of water by enemy agents etc), the eligible member of the family shall be entitled to Liberalised Family Pension. He further submitted that Para 5.1 of Govt. of India letter dated 31.01.2001 specifies that in case of death of an individual under the circumstances mentioned in category "B" (Death or disability due to causes which are accepted as attributable to or aggravated by military service, disease contracted because of continued exposure to a hostile work environment, subject to extreme weather conditions or occupational hazards resulting in death or disability) or category “C” (Death or disability due to accidents in performance of duties), Special Family Pension shall be admissible to the families of such personnel. Further Para 5.1 has been incorporated in Pension Regulations for the Army (Part-1) 2008 at Rule 105 (Extract of Rule 105 of Pension Regulations for the Army (Part-1) 2008. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance on judgment passed by Hon’ble Armed Forces Tribunal Chandigarh Regional Bench in O.A. No 1546 of 2012, Suresh Nath vs. Union of India and Others decided on 17.01.2014 in the similar matter and submitted that present O.A. has no force, hence liable to be dismissed.

6. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

7. Before dealing with the rival submissions, it would be appropriate to examine the relevant Rules and Regulations on the subject matter. For grant of Battle Causality status unit concerned has to take following action as per SAO 8/S/85 as amended by AO 1/2003/MP which were not taken i.e.:

- (i) Initial Report within 24 hours.
- (ii) Detailed report within 72 hours.
- (iii) Completion of injury report initiated by Military Hospital.
- (iv) Publication of Part II Order declaring battle casualty and
- (v) Submission of case to higher authorities for grant of ex-gratia.

8. In the instant case no any such action was taken by the unit and even no statement of case for belated sanction for reporting and declaring of Battle Causality was taken and Battle Causality Certificate was not issued to the applicant by the Commanding Officer under the provisions of Para 4 of OA 1/2003/MP. It is evident that injury sustained to the applicant was not due to actual fighting with enemy terrorist. In this case no Part II Order was published to declare the case as Battle Causality. As the applicant had suffered injury due to accident while on bona fide military duty, the injury was appropriately considered as attributable to military service. The Release Medical Board found his disability attributable to military service and assessed at 30% for life, hence applicant was granted disability element @ 50% for life.

11. Learned counsel for the applicant placed strong reliance on Para 4 of SAO 8/S/85 and Para 1 (d) of Appendix A to AO 1/2003 both of which provide for 'Accidental injuries and deaths which occur in action in an operational area' to be treated as Battle Casualty, the contention being that the petitioner suffered the injuries due to an accident in an operational area.

12. Besides the accidental injuries being sustained in an operational area, it is also qualified by an action. The dictionary defines action as : Expenditure of energy, deed, operation, gesture, battle lawsuit. In action would mean while engaged in battle. Mere presence in an operational area would not qualify as being in action. We understand that the entire state of Manipur and Nagaland and parts of adjoining states are notified under Operation Hifazzat, Parts of Sikkim, Assam, and J&K are similarly notified as operational areas. A full reading of the Army Orders and Government of India letter dated 31.01.2001 relating to Battle Casualties and classification of casualties for pensionary purposes shows that in all circumstances there is a direct and immediate relationship with the enemy or actions related to the enemy. In other words there should be a direct and casual connection between the duties being performed and the cause of accident or death. These Army Orders and letters cannot be read in isolation and need to be read in their full context.

13. Here we may refer to a few judgments which clarify the scope and interpretation of statutes. As said by Lord Davey: “Every clause of a statute should be construed with reference to the context and other clauses of the Act, so as, as far as possible, to make a consistent enactment of the whole statute or series of statutes relating to the subject matter. To ascertain the meaning of a clause in a statute the court must look at the whole statute, at what precedes and at when succeeds and not merely at the clause itself. As stated by Sinha, CJI, “The court must ascertain the intention of the Legislature by directing its attention not merely to the clauses to be construed but to the entire statute, it must compare the clause with the other parts of the law, and the setting in which the clause to be interpreted occurs. It is also apt to take note of few decisions of the Apex Court with regard to interpretation of Statutes.

14. In CIT vs Mcdowell & Co Ltd (2009) 10 SCC 755 (Para 20), it has been held that when particular words pertaining to a class or genus are followed by general words, the general words are construed as limited to things of the same kind as those specified.

15. The Apex Court in Union of India and others vs. Brig PS Gill, (2012) 4 SCC 463 had an occasion to interpret Sections 30 and 31 of the Armed Forces Tribunal Act 2007. The question which was up before the court was as to whether against a decision by the Armed Forces Tribunal, an appeal can be filed as a matter of right under Section 30 of the said Act which is subject to the provision of Section 31. The Court examined the scope of Sections 30 to 31 and while doing so it had held that ‘it is one of the settled canons of interpretation of statutes that every clause of the statute should be construed with respect to the context and the other clauses of the Act, so far as possible to make a consistent enactment of the whole statute or series relating the subject’. Reference to the decisions of this Court in M Pentiah v. Muddala Veeramallapa, AIR 1961 SC 1107 and Gammon India Ltd v. Union of India (1974), SCC 596, should in this regard suffice. In Gammon India Ltd, this Court observed “19....Every clause of a statute is to be construed with reference to the context and other provisions of the Act to make a consistent and harmonious meaning of the statute relating to the subject matter. The interpretation of the words will be by looking that the context, the collocation of the words and the object of the words relating to the matters.”

16. We can also gainfully extract the following passage from V. Tulasamma V. Sesha Reddy (1977) 3 SCC 99 wherein this Court observed “69. It is an elementary rule of construction that no provisions of a statute should be construed in isolation but it should be construed with reference to the context and in the light of other provisions of the statute so as, as far as possible, to make a consistent enactment of the whole statute”.

17. In Raheja Universal Ltd Vs NRC Ltd (2012) 4 SCC 148, it has been held that statute should be construed in its entirety any section or sub section should not be construed and read in isolation.

18. Having considered the facts and circumstances of the injury sustained by the applicant, the rules and policy governing such accidents and the above principles of interpretation, we are of the view that the applicant did not qualify for being declared as a battle casualty and for grant of liberalized pension. His injury and disability was appropriately held to be attributable to military service and he has been granted the appropriate benefits as per rules.

19. In view of the above, the Original Application is devoid of merit and deserves to be dismissed. It is accordingly dismissed.

20. No order as to costs.
