ORDER (ORAL)

1. Heard Ld. Counsel for the parties and perused the record.
2. The instant Original Application has been preferred under Section 14 of the Armed Forces Tribunal Act, 2007 being aggrieved by the impugned order of discharge dated 22.11.2008 passed on account of four red ink entries.
3. Admittedly, the applicant was enrolled in the Army on 26.10.1991 and was allotted trade of Driver Mechanical Transport (DMT). Initially show cause notice dated 14.08.2004 was given and the applicant submitted his reply.
4. Later on, another show cause notice dated 30.07.2008 was served upon the applicant to show cause as to why his service may not be dispensed with on account of four red ink entries. After receipt of reply, by means of the impugned order dated 22.11.2008 the applicant was discharged from service.
5. While assailing the impugned order, Ld. Counsel for the applicant submitted that the order is per se bad since no preliminary inquiry was held in pursuance to Army Order dated 28.12.1988 read with Army Rule 13 of the Army Rules, 1954. Submission of Ld. Counsel for the applicant is that along with show cause notice, report of the inquiry was not served on the applicant though the applicant was permitted to participate in the inquiry.

6. On the other hand, Ld Counsel for the respondents submitted that court of inquiry was held which submitted its report on 25.07.2003 and thereafter decision was taken to discharge the applicant from Army.

7. Even admitting for argument sake that court of inquiry was held in the year 2003, statutory requirement was not complied with since no preliminary inquiry was held in pursuance of Army Order dated 28.12.1988 with due participation of the applicant. In case, the preliminary inquiry would have been held in pursuance of Army Order dated 28.12.1988 (supra), the applicant would have got an opportunity to establish his case to continue in the army. Respondents should have taken a decision keeping the factual matrix of record. Mere red ink entries are not sufficient to discharge army person. No notice was served and order of discharge was passed straight away dispensing the petitioner's service. Policy letter dated 21.07.1973, which applies in the present case requires service of notice. Para-3 of the policy letter aforementioned is reproduced as under:-

“With a view, therefore, to enabling the OsC to exercise such discretion, Record Officers will intimate to all

Commanding Officers where any of their OR is awarded fourth and subsequent red entry. The fact of award of four or more red ink entries, does not, however, by itself make it incumbent that the OR must be discharged. All such cases are required to be dealt with on their merits and according to Army HQ instructions regarding discharge of undesirable/inefficient personnel, circulated from time to time through staff channels. Sanction of the competent authority vide Army Rule 13 will invariably be obtained for such discharge. Under no circumstances, the reasons of discharge in such cases will be recorded in the IAFY-1948A as "Having Four (or more) red ink entries."

8. Ld. counsel for the applicant relied upon the judgment of this Tribunal delivered in O.A. No. 168 of 2013 Abhilash Singh Kushwah vs. Union of India dated 23.09.2015. For convenience sake para 75 of the judgment of this Tribunal in Abhilash Singh Kushwah's case (supra) is reproduced as under:-

*"75. In view of above, since the applicant has been discharged from Army without following the additional procedure provided by A.O. 1988 (supra) seems to suffer from vice of arbitrariness. Finding with regard to applicability of Army Order 1988 (supra) is summarized and culled down as under:

(i) In view of provision contained in sub-rule 2A read with sub-rule 3 of Rule 13 of the Army Order (supra), in case the Chief of the Army Staff or the Government add certain additional conditions to the procedure provided by Rule 13 of the Army Rule 1954 (supra), it shall be statutory in nature, hence shall have binding effect and mandatory for the subordinate authorities of the Army or Chief of the Army Staff himself, and non compliance shall vitiate the punishment awarded thereon.

- (ii) The Chief of the Army Staff as well as the Government in pursuance to Army Act, 1950 are statutory authorities and they have right to issue order or circular regulating service conditions in pursuance to provisions contained in Army Act, 1950 and Rule 2A of Rule 13 (supra). In case such statutory power is exercised, circular or order is issued thereon it shall be binding and mandatory in nature subject to limitations contained in the Army Act, 1950 itself and Article 33 of the Constitution of India.
- (iii) The case of Santra (supra) does not settle the law with regard to applicability of Army Order of 1988 (supra), hence it lacks binding effect to the extent the Army Order of 1988 is concerned.
- (iv) The judgment of Jammu & Kashmir High Court and Division Bench judgment of Delhi High Court as well as provisions contained in sub-rule 2A of Rule 13 of the Army Act, 1950 and the proposition of law flowing from the catena of judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court and High Court (supra) relate to interpretative jurisprudence, hence order in Ex Sepoy Arun Bali (supra) is per incuriam to statutory provisions as well as judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court and lacks binding effect.

- (v) The procedure contained in Army Order of 1988 (supra) to hold preliminary enquiry is a condition precedent to discharge an army personnel on account of red ink entries and non-compliance of it shall vitiate the order. Till the procedure in Army Order of 1988 (supra) continues and remain operative, its compliance is must. None compliance shall vitiate the punishment awarded to army personnel.
- (iv) The procedure added by Army Order of 1988 is to effectuate and advances the protection provided by Part III of the Constitution of India, hence also it has binding effect.
- (vii) Order of punishment must be passed by the authority empowered by Rules 13, otherwise it shall be an instance of exceeding of jurisdiction, be void and nullity in law”.

9. The principle of law laid down by this Tribunal seems to have been affirmed by Hon’ble Supreme Court in recent judgment passed in Civil Appeal D. No. 32135 of 2015 *Veerendra Kumar Dubey Vs. Chief of Army Staff and others dated 16.10.2015. The Hon’ble Supreme Court while affirming the aforesaid proposition of law also held that preliminary inquiry is necessary and discharge merely on the basis of red ink entries is not sustainable. For convenience sake para 12 of aforesaid judgment of the Hon’ble Supreme Court is reproduced as under :-

“12. The argument that the procedure prescribed by the competent authority de hors the provisions of Rule 13 and the breach of that procedure should not nullify the order of discharge otherwise validly made has not impressed us. It is true that Rule 13 does not in specific terms envisage an enquiry nor does it provide for consideration of factors to which we have referred above. But it is equally true that Rule 13 does not in terms make it mandatory for the competent authority to discharge an individual just because he has been awarded four red ink entries. The threshold of four red ink entries as a ground for discharge has no statutory sanction. Its genesis lies in administrative instructions issued on the subject. That being so, administrative instructions could, while prescribing any such threshold as well, regulate the exercise of the power by the competent authority qua an individual who qualifies for consideration on any such administratively prescribed norm. In as much as the competent authority has insisted upon an enquiry to be conducted in which an opportunity is given to the individual concerned before he is discharged from service, the instructions cannot be faulted on the ground that the instructions concede to the individual more than what is provided for by the rule. The instructions are aimed at ensuring a non-discriminatory fair and non-arbitrary application of the statutory rule. It may have been possible to assail the circular instructions if the same had taken away something that was granted to the individual by the rule. That is because administrative instructions cannot make inroads into statutory rights of an individual. But if an administrative authority prescribes a certain procedural safeguard to those affected against arbitrary exercise of powers, such safeguards or procedural equity and fairness will not fall foul of the rule or be dubbed ultra vires of the statute. The procedure prescribed by circular dated 28th December, 1988 far from violating Rule 13 provides safeguards against an unfair and improper use of the power vested in the authority, especially when even independent of the procedure stipulated by the competent authority in the circular aforementioned, the authority exercising the power of discharge is expected to take into consideration all relevant factors. That an individual has put in long years of service giving more often than not the best part of his life to armed forces, that he has been exposed to hard stations and difficult living conditions during his tenure and that he may be completing pensionable service are factors which the authority competent to discharge would have even independent of the procedure been required to take into consideration while exercising the power of discharge. Inasmuch as the procedure stipulated specifically made them relevant for the exercise of the power by the competent authority there was neither any breach nor any encroachment by executive instructions into the territory covered by the statute. The procedure presented simply regulates the exercise of power which would, but for such regulation and safeguards against arbitrariness, be perilously close to being ultra vires in that the authority competent to discharge shall, but for the safeguards, be vested with uncanalised and absolute power of discharge without any guidelines as to the manner in which such power may be exercise. Any such unregulated and uncanalised power would in turn offend Article 14 of the Constitution”.

10. In view of above, the O.A. deserves to be allowed; hence allowed. Impugned order of discharge dated 22.11.2008 is hereby quashed with all consequential benefits. However, keeping in view the material on record and prolonged absence of the applicant's husband Ex Naik (DMT) Bechan Singh who expired during pendency of present O.A., we decline to grant arrears of salary, but the dependents, wards or heirs as the case may be of the deceased shall be entitled for payment of all post retiral dues and regular pension with continuity of service of the rank which he was holding at the time of discharge from service.

11. O.A is allowed accordingly.

No order as to costs.
